THE HANGED MAN

Major Arcana

If a person is bitten, the bite should immediately be reported to the health department as soon as possible.

1. If the person cannot be confined and observed, the person bitten should be disengaged unless the circumstances of the bite were such as to raise all suspicion that they will be infected.

Nearly all cases result from bites.

They can transmit the disease before they show symptoms of it.

1. If the symptoms have begun to appear, all treatment is useless as says John, but the patient should be in a hospital where he can be observed during the stage of spasms and mania, and where his suffering can be lessened by means of morphine.

The disease is 100 percent fatal.

The chief distinguishing feature between man and the lower animals is man's brain. It gives the human being the power to think and to reason, to speak and to create. There is a great deal of difference between the brain of a human and that of a dog or a baboon.
